pranaDOGS Service Dog Training Program is a combination training program involving one-on-one training with the dogs and then with the partners together. Individuals wishing to adopt a pranaDOGS Service Dog must be able to participate in two-months of post-adoption training with pranaDOGS.

Dogs are adopted with a service vest. At the time of adoption, all dogs are able to pass a Canine Good Citizen and ADI Access Certification Test. Dogs are trained to work as psychiatric service dogs with four base behaviors: grounding individuals during panic or anxiety attacks, interrupting compulsive behaviors, reminding individuals to take medications and calling for help. Additional tasks may be trained at adopters request for an additional fee. Adoption fees range from $3,000 - $7,000. Questions? Info@pranaDOGS.com or (970) 325-3140.

Complete and return the adoption application to Info@pranaDOGS.com.

As individuals, not all dogs are suited for all service dog work. pranaDOGS takes a great deal of time selecting dogs who have the temperament, stamina, and emotional well-being to function in this capacity. Dogs must also be a good fit for the family, environment and situation. Not all dogs work in all situations, therefore pranaDOGS reserves the right to refuse any adoption or recommend an alternate (trained) dog if the placement doesn't work out.
